Ohio Energy Project Welcomes New Executive Director

Energy Education Nonprofit Excited to Tap Michael Goldman as Next Leader

Worthington, OH: Ohio Energy Project (OEP), a nonprofit sparking curiosity about energy in K-12 schools across Ohio, announces Michael Goldman as their next Executive Director after a 3-month public search. Michael brings with him a background in environmental education and nonprofit management and will serve as the nonprofit's 5th Executive Director since its inception in 1988.

The OEP Board of Trustees conducted the search and are excited to welcome Michael to the team. "Michael brings a wealth of expertise in informal education, fundraising and team leadership, and we are excited about the fresh perspectives and innovative ideas he will bring to OEP." – Devin Parram, Ohio Energy Project Board President

Michael Goldman holds a Bachelor's in Environmental Geography from Ohio University and a Master's in Environmental and Outdoor Education from SUNY Cortland. A passionate advocate for sustainable energy, Michael is poised to drive positive change for OEP and the wider energy community here in Ohio.

About OEP: Ohio Energy Project is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit inspiring leadership and energy innovation in Ohio students and teachers. With programs spanning sustainability, careers, and engineering design, OEP impacts hundreds of teachers and tens of thousands of students annually across Ohio's 88 counties.
